MORE ABUNDANT LIFE

We have been puzzled for some time over the exact meaning of the phrase "the more abundant life." The Townsend plan and Huey Long's "share the wealth" seemed to fit in very nicely with the sonorous sentence. Other plans, equally alluring, however, bobbed up from time to time, causing perplexity and doubt as to which was really deserving of the crown, and therefore we could reach no definite conclusion.

The Washington Star has done a public service by throwing a light in dark places and enlightening our benighted minds. It says in a recent issue:

"The War Department has unwittingly disclosed what the New Dealers mean when they talk about the 'more abundant life.' In advertising for the furnishings of the quarters to be set up for workers on the Passamaquoddy, Maine, power project on Cobscook Bay, the specifications call for the old Colonial influence in the furnishings, with grandfather clocks, sofa seats and pastel shades, with paintings by 'recognized masters' hung on the walls."

"The War Department is calling for all-wool blankets of 'pastel green with wide taffeta rayon bindings, 80 by 60 inches and weighing 2 1/4 pounds each.' The

Injunction To Prevent Labor Hearing Asked

GREENSBORO, N. C., March 25.—UP.—The Cannon Tower Mills of Concord, N. C., today asked a permanent Federal court injunction to restrain the National Labor Relations Board from holding a hearing on alleged unfair practices of the mills. The complaint attacked constitutionality of the act setting up the labor board on grounds it violated the 10th amendment by denying the right of trial by jury, by giving judicial power to the board and by making the board's findings conclusive, with no right of appeal.

Federal Judge Johnson J. Hayes set Monday for the hearings.

New Floods Along Ohio Are Feared

CINCINNATI, O., March 25.—UP.—Heavy rains in the upper Ohio valley and in the Great Kanawha and Big Sandy rivers in West Virginia threatened tonight to bring a new major flood to cities and villages along the Ohio.

The thousands of refugees who had started moving back into their homes after last week's disastrous floods, withdrew to higher land. Relief agencies, battling to bring order out of chaos, prepared for a new siege.

EPIDEMIC FEARED

Covington, Ky., hard hit by rising floodwaters, was threatened with an epidemic of spinal meningitis. Two deaths have been attributed to the disease since the Ohio began to rise here, and late today a quarantine was clamped on entire Kenton county by Health Officer H. C. White.

Schools, theaters, churches and dance halls in Covington were ordered closed. Public gatherings were banned.

SECOND FLOOD

Government weather observers at Huntington, W. Va., predicted a second major flood in that district within 48 to 72 hours. Major John F. Conklin, head of the Huntington District United States Engineers, said the second flood might reach 55 feet. The first went to 58.8 feet.

Orders to disband the emergency flood relief organization were rescinded by Mayor Martin Chapman and a general alarm was broadcast by radio.

Crops Damaged By Heavy Frost

MARYSVILLE, March 25.—UP.—Heavy frost last night caused heavy damage to the fruit crops of the Sacramento valley, a check-up by agricultural experts revealed today.

Firemen Help Seriously Ill Cerrito Woman

The inhalator operated by El Cerrito firemen last night aided a seriously ill El Cerrito woman. The woman was Mrs. H. R. Silveria, 7109 Donald avenue, who has been suffering from heart trouble.

She was taken to the fire house by her husband and the inhalator was applied by Engineer Joe De Martin and Fireman Melvin Belis and Don Searight.

Dr. E. R. Jackson said Mrs. Silveria's breathing was hampered by a run down condition caused by a weak heart. Her condition was not serious, Dr. Jackson said, but the oxygen supplied by the inhalator greatly improved her condition.

The "decisive battle" was expected by the Italian military command within the next few days.

AUTOMOBILE HITS TRUCK ON HIGHWAY

Death rode the highways again last night, adding another name to the rapidly increasing list of automobile accident victims.

Thomas A. Seifert, 42, of Martinez, a special deputy sheriff, was instantly killed when his car crashed into the rear of a milk truck on Tank Farm hill near the farm offices of the Standard Oil company.

Seifert, who resided at 2114 Castro street, Martinez, died from a fractured skull and internal injuries. His body will be taken to a Martinez funeral chapel.

According to State highway police and deputy sheriffs who investigated the crash, Seifert drove his car into the rear of a milk truck being driven by Frank Richard, 46, of 1215 Walnut street, Berkeley.

Both machines were traveling toward Richmond, Calif., when the crash, told officers that he was driving in third gear at the time.

Today Is Final Day To Register For May Election

Today is the final day to register for the May presidential primary. This was the warning issued yesterday by leaders of both major political parties in Richmond and Contra Costa county.

Although county and city officials have reported that registrations have been heavy, there are still many persons residing in Richmond, and Contra Costa who have not signed the rolls and thereby will be ineligible to vote for delegates to the national conventions of the two parties.

It was pointed out that some voters may have an erroneous idea that the so-called "permanent registration" makes it unnecessary for them to re-register. However, those who have not registered will find that they cannot vote in May.

Registrations for school trustee elections close April 26; for August primaries on July 16 and for the general election on September 21.

S. O. Employees Vote For Officers

Election of five executive officers and 60 committeemen was under way at the Standard Oil plant yesterday. Members of the Employees Association will vote until March 31 when the ballot boxes will be taken up and a count will be made on April 8.

Ben Mowday, president; Bert Jenkins, first vice president; Charles Drake, second vice president; Clifford Wingrove, third vice president and A. S. Remell, secretary, are unopposed for re-election, although members may write in names of candidates.

No One Injured In Auto Crash

Slight damage was done and no one was injured in an automobile accident early last evening at Cutting Boulevard and Pullman avenue. The machines were driven by Fred Branch of Oakland and John Alpego of Albany.

19 Candidates Seek Offices In El Cerrito

With 19 candidates seeking five posts, politics in El Cerrito almost reached its zenith yesterday when deadline came for the filing of petitions.

At noon yesterday Miss Margaret O'Connell, El Cerrito city clerk, closed the books for candidates and the election race was off to a good start.

VOTE APRIL 14
When voters of the neighborhood go to the polls on April 14, they will be faced with the task of selecting a city clerk from a list of eight candidates; three councilmen from a roll of nine and a city treasurer.

The race for city clerk is attracting much interest. Miss O'Connell replaced Fred J. Prosser, who was based on slushy charges and later resigned his post. Miss O'Connell will not run for re-election and there are exactly eight persons who want her job.

EIGHT CANDIDATES
The eight candidates are: J. W. Allen, Alfred G. Baxter, Marvin J. Freeman, Anthony J. Chappie, Mrs. Evelyn Hensley, S. C. Masterson, Jr., Edwin R. Richards and Jack Stoddard.

A hot contest for the three positions on the city council is in prospect. There are nine candidates, including the three incumbents.

SUICIDE TRY OF RICHMOND WOMAN FAILS

Mrs. Hazel Valentine, 29, living at 315 Eighth street, was treated at a local hospital last evening after she allegedly attempted to take her own life by swallowing several poison tablets.

Quick action by attending physicians and hospital attendants saved her life. She is still at the hospital but physicians say her condition is not critical.

WOMAN BROODED

According to police reports, Mrs. Valentine and her husband have been separated. Yesterday was the first anniversary of their marriage. Police say the woman brooded about the estrangement and decided to take her life. She then, police say, took several tablets.

Immediately after she had swallowed the poison, she became hysterical and summoned her landlady, Mrs. Carrie Meredith. The latter called Dr. E. R. Guinan. A Wilson and Kratzer ambulance was summoned and the woman was (Continued on page 3)

Early Work On Local Harbor Seen By C. C.

Early activity on Richmond's harbor development program was seen yesterday when the Chamber of Commerce directors were informed by Congressman Albert E. Carter that the necessary legislation providing the appropriations is now nearing passage at Washington.

The program was approved several months ago by the Rivers and Harbors Committee and consists of maintenance of the Santa Fe channel, widening of turning basins, and important dredging along the outer harbor front. Beginning of work awaited the necessary appropriations by Congress.

BILL IS PASSED

"The House within the last few days passed the bill which included the items for the Richmond program. When the bill went to the Senate that body accepted the bill but added another $50,000 to it. The bill now goes back to the House which it is believed will pass it by the end of the session."

President P. M. Sanford of the Chamber was authorized to wire Congressman Albert E. Carter urging immediate passage.

SMITH HURLS FOUR-HIT BALL IN FAST GAME

In a pitcher's duel yesterday afternoon at the high school field, the Richmond Union high school baseball team won its fifth consecutive victory of the season, defeating John Swett of Crockett by a score of 5 to 3.

Leonard Smith was on the mound for the local team and he allowed only four scattered hits—two in the second inning and two in the ninth. He fanned nine men and walked one.

CROCKETT THREATENS
Only once was Smith in danger. In the ninth inning with the score standing 5 to 2, the Crockett team started a rally. However, Smith settled down and choked the visitors off with only one hit.

Cuscha pitched masterful ball for the visitors. He allowed only four hits but errors by his teammates let Richmond runs cross the plate. Cuscha fanned five men and walked four.

SCORED IN FIRST
Richmond scored one run in the first inning. After Cecchi had flied out, Rocha got a single and Moniz sacrificed him to second base. Christopher hit at the timely spot and scored Rocha.

Two more runs crossed the plate in the second inning. Boljohn walked and Cecchi got a single. Rocha singled to score Boljohn. Cecchi took third when Moniz flied out. Christopher walked. When Moore reached first base on Bates' error and Cecchi scored, Smith flied out to end the inning.

ANOTHER SCORE
In the fifth inning another run came in in almost the same manner. Cecchi hit and then stole second, going to third on Rocha's fly to left field. Moniz was out and Christopher walked. Once again Moore reached first on Bates' error and during the scramble for the ball, Cecchi reached home.

The last run came in the eighth inning. Moore walked and scored when Pippo singled.

The Crockett team scored one run in the second, another in the fifth and their final score in the ninth.

Friday the local boys will meet Martinez at Martinez.

Woodrow Wilson Wins First Game Of Ball Season

The Woodrow Wilson baseball club is feeling elated over its first victory of the season, achieved in its contest with the San Pablo boys, who were taken into camp by a score of 23 to 21.

The game, which was played on the Woodrow Wilson grounds, was not what could be called league caliber, but it was exciting just the same and aroused as much enthusiasm as a closer score would have done. The ball was sailing through the air for most of the nine periods and both sides not plenty of exercise.

San Pablo Boys Club Wins In Berkeley Game

The San Pablo boys club basketball champions of Northern California, last night defeated the Linden Y. M. C. club at Berkeley 29 to 7 in a fast basketball game.

ATTORNEYS AT MOONEY WRIT HEARING CLASH

SAN FRANCISCO, March 25.—UP—Heated objections to defense tactics studded today's proceedings of Tom Mooney's hearing on an application for a writ of habeas corpus as Attorney John Finerty clashed frequently with Edward Cunha, witness, and Edward Cleary, deputy state attorney general.

Controversy centered principally around an affidavit of Frank Oxman, the prosecution's star witness in the 1917 Mooney trial. The document, dated October 12, 1916, originally had referred erroneously to Portland, Ore., rather than San Francisco, as the city in which the Preparedness Day bombing had occurred.

Intimating that the error demonstrated either gross negligence or ignorance, Finerty asked Cunha, a former assistant district attorney who had aided in prosecuting Mooney:

"Don't you believe that affidavit would have had much effect on the jury if it had been introduced?"

"Yes," replied Cunha. Finerty, pointing out that the affidavit had never appeared in court even when Oxman was tried for perjury, then charged Cunha with concealment of evidence. Cunha spiritedly retorted that the defense never had asked for it, then admitted that he had not known "Oxman was so clumsy and ignorant of the English language."

The Washington lawyer then launched a bitter attack against Cunha, who today spent his tenth day in the witness chair. In the middle of his renewed cross-examination, Cleary entered an objection on the basis that it was "speculative and hypothetical."

Chicken Shed, 500 Chicks Are Burned In Blaze

Fire of undetermined origin yesterday afternoon destroyed a large chicken shed, a brooder and 500 chickens on the old McDonald ranch near La Honda, Bow. The property is owned by P. K. O'Dell and is under lease to Denny Dennis.

The loss is estimated at between $500 and $700. For a time the fire threatened to spread to adjoining buildings, but timely work with the county fire truck by Stanley Skow and George Lehmkuhle saved the other structures. The burned building was 25 by 75 feet.

It is thought that perhaps the brooder, in which oil is used, exploded, causing the fire.

Lenient Judge Reduces Girl's Own Sentence

SAN FRANCISCO, March 25.—UP—Sherry Harcourt, 26, New York, first learned the name of "the biggest banker in town."

Then she went into a department store, purchased various articles and charged them to the banker.

When Municipal Judge Sylvain Lazarus heard the story today, he told the young woman he was "impatient" at such goings on and that as a symbol of his impatience he would sentence her to jail.

"If you were the judge," he asked, "how long would you make the sentence?"

"About six years, I guess," said the girl dejectedly.

"Well," the court said, "you're not before that kind of a judge. Ten days."

Prisoners Are Questioned In Jury Jail Probe

MARTINEZ, March 25.—Without disclosing the nature of his report, Melvin P. Myatt today revealed that he was concluding his investigation of the method of conduct of the Contra Costa county jail for the county grand jury.

He said that his report would be presented to the law enforcement committee of the jury Friday night after the regular session of the jury is concluded. The committee was to meet again Saturday morning.

Myatt spent most of yesterday questioning prisoners regarding the method which jailers used in housing male and female prisoners and concerning a dinner given a week ago at which Mrs. Ruth McCard and other women prisoners were present.

Sheriff John A. Miller announced that his own investigation of the circumstances of the dinner, arranged as a birthday party for Glenn M. Skogman, a Federal prisoner serving six months for altering Federal papers, was only partially complete.

Louis Pedrizzetti, foreman of the county grand jury, said the jury would meet here Friday night, but would probably not consider the county jail question. He declared that the law enforcement committee which was also making an investigation, would meet again Saturday morning to consider future procedure.

Five Federal prisoners were removed from the jail Monday afternoon pending investigation of charges that some of them were given special privileges.

Sale Of State Warrants Gets Merriam's Okay

SACRAMENTO, March 25.—UP—Sale of $2,400,000 in registered State warrants to handle direct unemployment relief during April was authorized today by Governor Frank F. Merriam.

Disposition of the warrants will leave only $1,200,000 for relief work in May and June. Funds will be exhausted by May 20, Governor Merriam indicated.

Unless additional Federal money is made available in the meantime, the governor will have to call a special legislative session or borrow money from some special State fund.

Governor Merriam said he preferred to borrow from a special fund if necessary, would submit the legislature to make available some of the $24,000,000 appropriated for relief work in the second half of the current biennium.

CONGRESS TAX GROUP CHANGES MIND ON PLAN

WASHINGTON, March 25.—UP—Congressional tax experts today fled before growing opposition to proposed new farm processing levies and suddenly reversed their decision to recommend this source of cash in the Administration's new $1,137,000,000 revenue program.

The decision was reached at the final meeting of the House ways and means sub-committee which has been studying the tax situation for three weeks. Chairman S. E. Hill, Democrat, Washington, said his group would report to the full committee tomorrow.

ARE SILENT

Members of the sub-committee were discreetly silent concerning their reasons for scuttling the agricultural excise taxes. These levies were proposed by President Roosevelt to raise part of the $792,000,000 which he said would be required annually for the next three years to finance the farm and bonus programs and to reimburse the treasury for losses suffered from invalidation of AAA.

"We decided today to eliminate entirely from consideration by the full committee, the subject of processing taxes," said Hill. "That means, if our report is accepted, the processing tax question will not even be discussed at the hearing."

Freezing Frost To Hit Valleys This Morning

By UNITED PRESS
Heavy smog and fog in California's valley orchard region Wednesday as farmers fought to save their crops from heavy frosts and freezing temperatures were expected to continue through Thursday.

Already huge damage to blossoming trees has been reported in the Santa Clara, Sacramento and San Joaquin valleys. Despite cautions taken Tuesday at showers of blossoms littered ground under blooming pear, cherry, peach and almond trees.

The U. S. Weather Bureau warned that frost will again strike Thursday morning and advise the re-lighting of smudge pots. The cold wave was accompanied by a bitter wind near the coast and rain and snow in the high elevations locally. Over the hills, however, skies were clear.

GREENS FOR ST. PATRICK

Today is St. Patrick's day, when our Irish brothers will celebrate wearing something green. However, on every day, dietitians will praise the good habit of eating green leafy vegetables.

If you are looking for a spring tonic, then help yourself to "greens." In the green leafy vegetable you will find a blond builder of the highest order. Use the green leaves in the cooked form, but also remember to add some of the chopped greens to your salad.

When you help yourself to greens you are helping yourself to food minerals and to vitamins. Greens are among the most alkaline forming of all foods and those who have been over-eating on the acid forming foods will do well to include a large serving of greens with the dinner menu tonight, and from now on.

It does not matter whether you find your greens growing wild out in the fields and hillsides or whether you purchase them in the market, but it does matter how you prepare them. Cooking these green leaves for too long a time will rob them of much of their flavor and will also destroy part of the mineral content. Before you attempt to put them on the stove, first soak the crisp green leaves in a large pail of water. The soaking will have the desirable effect of causing grit and dirt to sink to the bottom of the pail. At the end of one hour, carefully lift the leaves from the top of the water, without disturbing the sediment in the bottom. Now you are ready to wash the leaves under running water, throwing away all spoiled or tough parts. Cook green leaves over a slow fire with very little water and keep the cover on the cooking vessel. Cook only until tender. When served, season with butter. Greens cooked in this way are wholesome, full of flavor, and appetizing.

Here is a list of leaves which may be used. For cooking purposes: seakale, radish tops, artichoke, broccoli, dandelion, spinach, Swiss chard, kale, endive, beet tops, turnip tops, Romaine lettuce, mustard, and Chinese mustard. For adding to salads: lettuce, tender spinach leaves, watercress, parsley, cabbage, escarole, endive, corn salad, nasturtium leaves, and cabbage.

Green leafy vegetables have been classed as "protective" foods. They help to balance the diet properly and thus protect you from illness. They provide a soft bulk which is of value in the intestinal tract and which does not prove irritating. At the same time, they are low in food value and there is not, therefore any tendency to gain excess weight from using them. I often suggest that those patients troubled with constipation, learn to include the green leafy vegetables in the diet in larger amounts. In many cases, this is all that is necessary. Inasmuch as constipation is often produced from using too many of the concentrated foods which provide little residue, it is a good plan to use the concentrated foods in moderate amounts and to balance them with the leafy vegetables which are low in food value but provide plenty of bulk. In using greens for the specific purpose of avoiding sluggish intestinal elimination, use at least two servings daily.

The green leafy vegetables are also valuable in the reducing diet. When the amount of food is reduced below that to which the patient is accustomed, it is advisable to have the patient fill up on greens and a second helping of some of the green vegetables will help to make the patient feel that he has had a full meal.

Greens, unquestionably, are an excellent aid to health. Celebrate St. Patrick's day by "eating of the greens."

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

(Meat A Protein)
Question: Mr. Jackson G. writes: "Is meat a protein or a starch?"
Answer: Meat is one of the most important proteins. It has been called the "wear and tear" food because of the fact that it provides the material necessary to replace muscular tissue worn out during activity. I consider a reasonable amount of meat to be beneficial, both in the diet of adults and children.

(Enlarged Tonsils)
Question: Miss Lily B. writes: "My tonsils feel swollen in my throat and I am sure they are enlarged. Does enlargement automatically mean that the tonsils are diseased?"
Answer: It is possible for the tonsils to enlarge without being diseased. An enlarged tonsil is not necessarily a diseased tonsil.

(Pretzels)
Question: Fritz asks: "If anyone ate a lot of pretzels, would they be considered fattening?"
Answer: Yes, pretzels taken in large amounts would be considered fattening, as they contain starch. However, part of the starch is dextrinized in the baking process.

(Losing of Fontanel)
Question: Mrs. Fred B. writes: "The soft spot on my baby's head closed when she was ten months old. Does this have any effect on her mentality?"
Answer: It is unusual for the soft spot, or anterior fontanel, on a baby's head to be entirely closed at the age of ten months, but inasmuch as the closing is a normal procedure it is no reason for suspecting an abnormal mental condition.

Women Strikers Threaten War At Eastern Factory

COSHOCTON, O., March 25.—(UP)—Embattled women strikers, aided by husky coal miners, wielded heavy clubs at the gates to the Indianapolis Glove Company plant tonight and announced they would resist any attempt to open the factory.

Striking because of a 20 percent wage reduction, the women established a 24-hour picket line as precaution against an attempt to enter the plant by night. In another section of the village, the non-striking, mostly women, made plans to invade the factory tomorrow morning.

The strikers, members of the International Glove Workers Union, forced suspension of activities at the plant early today. Their lines were quickly reinforced by sympathetic coal miners and hod carriers.

The Discovery of America

A housewife from Europe finds in her neighborhood grocery here a reason for our national progress

(quoted from "My Country, 'Tis of Thee," an article in The Ladies' Home Journal, Nov., 1935)

"...The European housewife undertakes a daily shopping ordeal. 'The butcher gives her good meat only if she... regards with indignation what he cuts. 'The baker is far away, in another street, and the bread is fresh only if... hand-picked. 'Vegetables and meat are never found in the same shop... fruits must be sought in separate establishments. Milk, eggs and butter have homes of their own. Except on Mondays, Wednesdays and Saturdays everything... is stale. 'The merchant and customer dislike each other... 'In America a thousand conveniences make life easier. The graciousness of the seller is echoed by the buyer. 'This unique freedom... based on mutual respect... is a comforting sign of the true democracy of this country.'

TODAY in every trade and craft, men of courage are seeking out better methods—finding ways to bring new values to their customers.

Your Safeway grocer has his part in this march of progress. He belongs to a business family which pioneered the modern grocery store.

To make your shopping easy, he daily gathers under one roof fine foods of all kinds. His standards of courtesy, cleanliness, and convenient store arrangement are followed by other progressive grocers.

Even more important to you, your Safeway grocer has developed a more efficient, less costly method of distributing food.

Because he works with a team of buyers, shippers, marketmen and home economists, he has been able to cut down wasteful costs that used to come in between farm and store.

This way he can sell his foods at lower retail prices. And his customers can afford more of the choice foods they want.

This increased sales volume, in turn, makes it possible for your Safeway grocer to pay back to farmers a larger share of each retail food dollar spent at his store.

As an individual storeman, your Safeway grocer could not make the money-savings which help both consumers and producers.

The Doctor Discusses Diabetes and Diseases of The Pancreas

By CLAUD NORTH CHRISMAN, M.D.

VARIOUS tumors and cysts develop in and around the pancreas. Some are due to obstruction of the ducts, others to metastasis and hemorrhage into the pancreatic substance. Some come from direct injury. They show themselves as a swelling or growth under the stomach, more on the left side, with symptoms of indigestion. A steadily enlarging mass in this region with tenderness and the formation of gas tells attention to the condition. No treatment is of any avail except free opening and drainage to the outside. A rare but very important occurrence is seen in the pancreas. It is seldom discovered during life but the rare things are the ones that crop up at most unexpected times.

DR. CHRISMAN

In the fall of 1913 I was called to see a man, aged thirty, suffering from extreme pain and tenderness in the upper right side of the abdomen with vomiting and shock. My first thought was gall stone colic, but just having been operated on for gall stones myself the year before I was not satisfied that he had gall stones.

However an X-Ray picture showed several stones in the region of the gall bladder. Operation was advised and done. Imagine my surprise on opening the gall bladder to find it healthy and free from stones.

The plate showed stones and they must be there. After searching the surrounding region I found three stones in the head of the pancreas.

On the Spot
I was "on the spot." At that time the pancreas was considered to be one organ that could not be opened for operation. The stones were there and causing great pain. If allowed to remain would probably result in the death of the patient. To open the pancreas was supposed to cause uncontrollable hemorrhage and gangrene.

So far as I knew, no one had ever removed stones from that region, but it had to be done. With great fear and dread I removed the stones, picked the cavity out in a drainage tube and closed the wound, scarcely daring to think what the results might be. To my great surprise and satisfaction nothing happened except my patient recovered promptly and has remained well ever since. Operation for removal and drainage of cysts and abscesses have become routine work, but removal of the portion of the pancreas has not proved satisfactory.

The most important condition of the pancreas, and the one that causes serious disease and death, is a condition known as diabetes mellitus, resulting in the disease called "Diabetes Mellitus."

What Is Diabetes?
Scattered all through the substance of the pancreas are collections of cells called the "islands of Langerhans" which secrete a substance known as insulin. Normal oxidation of carbohydrates or sugar is impossible without insulin, and when the islands of Langerhans prevent the production of insulin, there results an increase in the concentration of sugar in the blood (hyperglycemia) with consequent secretion of excess of sugar.

With this disorder of carbohydrate—metabolism, disturbances of protein and fat metabolism frequently result and we have a vicious circle with lack of digestion and absorption of sugars, fat and proteins.

This is the condition which results in diabetes. For many years diabetes was supposed to be a disease of the kidneys because sugar was found but now we know it is a deficiency in some of the contents of the pancreatic juice.

Dr. Minkowski, forty years ago, demonstrated that diabetes was due to some derangement in the pancreas, but much experimentation was done without success.

A few years ago Drs. Banting and Best of Canada succeeded in isolating insulin, they discovered how to obtain it from the animals in a pure form and in sufficient quantities to enable us to use it in the treatment of diabetes in humans.

Short Cuts

For the best care, tablecloths containing rayon should be ironed flat without folding and rolled on a mangle tube to keep them smooth. When a cloth is so large that one fold must be put down the center before rolling, it is advisable to vary the location of the fold each time it is laundered.

When the recipe says "Dust the pan with flour," it means this: Put about a tablespoon of flour into the pan and keep tipping the pan until the flour coats the entire surface of the inside. Then turn the pan and shake out surplus flour.

From Music Critic to Orchestra Conductor

By TALBOT LAKE

WHEN the Philadelphia Orchestra goes on tour this spring one of the conductors will be a young man who was once a music critic—Charles O'Connell. Like the man to whose podium he has ascended, Leopold Stokowski, Mr. O'Connell conducts with his hands and never uses a baton.

A mere debut should not be difficult for this tall and handsome young man. He is not only one of the leading figures in the world of recording, but he has accomplished the task of writing a best-seller on the understanding and appreciation of symphonic music. His book on the symphony was chosen by William Lyon Phelps as one of the best works of 1935, and is in its third edition.

A fourth generation New Englander, though he looks Irish, he was born thirty-six years ago in Chicago. His parents, sang in a boys' choir and studied piano. He took a few years off to graduate from Holy Cross College in 1922, and went back to piano, where he was the fastest of the great pianists. Gabrielowitz, Gabrielowitz sent him to New York to study under Frederic Marner, from whom he went in succession to Julia Roger and to William Churchill Hammond, head of the music department of Mount Holyoke College and dean of New England organists. He was later at Cathedral of Holy Cross and in Springfield, Mass., and reported music for the Springfield Daily News.

Mr. O'Connell studied with Charles Marie Widor, of St. Sulpice, in Paris, in 1928 and began conducting. He is a disciple of the school of batonless conductors, which Leopold Stokowski is the outstanding exponent. Mr. O'Connell has the distinction of being the first to make a successful electronic recording of the organ, and that year was awarded the Kiley Bruckner Medal for the recording of a symphony. The Philadelphia Orchestra will play his arrangements of Bach, Purcell, Debussy and Turina on its forthcoming transcontinental tour.

Mr. O'Connell will act as assistant conductor, directing in his native Springfield on April 15 in Little Rock on April 23, and other cities throughout the West.

Guide to Charm

Give a Girl Chance With Cosmetics

By JACQUELINE HUNT

BRINGING beauty to you is one of the most exciting and satisfying experiences that you can have. Let her share in your pride and pleasure in her appearance and the hours spent brushing, polishing and arranging her hair to bring out the prettiest lines of her face—and the scrubbing needed to keep her skin clear and smooth—will seem less monotonous and tedious.

When she understands that you are really interested in bringing out her nicest features, there will be little friction between you when the question of cosmetics comes up. It is natural for a girl to want to use powder and other cosmetics, and as long as you do not forbid them she will turn to you for advice on how to use them properly.

Her first cosmetic will probably be a box of fine, pure face powder that matches as nearly as possible her clear, natural skin coloring. Show her how to fluff it on her skin with a powder puff or piece of cotton and then remove the excess with a soft baby's brush. Point out how important it is that the powder match her skin tones and that just a mere dusting be used for a natural effect—and how essential it is that it should all be washed away before she goes to bed at night.

A little girl's first lipstick should be a white or pink tinted lip pomade that comes in lipstick form. This is soft and soothing to lips that tend to be dry or chapped and it has a way of giving them a deep, soft tone and warm, moist appearance without adding artificial color. When she is in her teens a real lipstick or a paste rouge in a soft, youthful shade may be used for special parties.

Early in her teens a girl should be given a cleansing cream, preferably a cleansing one that melts quickly on the face, and she should be taught how the film of soiled oil should be removed first with tissues and then with bland soap and tepid water.

For chapping and for a powder foundation a good hand lotion is usually sufficient. If there is a tendency to freckle and she is sensitive about it, you might get a good foundation cream or "milk" cream and show her how to blend a little of the cream with a little skin freshener or cold water, then spread a light, even film over her face, neck and arms before dusting on her powder.

Many young girls write asking about whether or not they should use tissue creams. These are rarely needed for the youthful skin. If the skin is very dry, a light application of the cream used for facial lubrication. When a rich, creamy cream is used, it should be left on the clean skin for fifteen minutes, then wiped away with a soft cloth and cold water before she goes to bed.

Beauty Tips

QUESTION: "I have just bought my first jar of tissue cream. How often should I use it?—Seventeen."

At your age, your skin should be naturally moist and soft, so that once or twice a week should be often enough to use the cream. Of course, you know it should be used only after you have washed your face and neck carefully. Apply a liberal film, then massage lightly with up and out movements. Wipe away the cream that remains on your skin and splash with cold water or use a skin freshener to tighten the pores. Of course you can also use the cream whenever your skin is chapped or dry.

QUESTION: "I am five feet, two inches in height. I probably will not grow any taller, since I am eighteen, but I would like to look taller. How should I dress and arrange my hair?—Haydee."

You can make yourself look taller by always carrying your body gracefully. Stand straight, with your head up, at all times and try to keep your waist and hips small. There are all kinds of sports and exercises that will help you do this.

Wear your hair arranged high in your head in boyish curls or with waves and ringlets with an upward trend. Avoid long bangs or hair that is fluffed out at the sides. Keep your hair brushed until it shines and wear it off your ears. Wear your little hats with narrow brims and an upward tilt. Simple tailored suits and dresses in one color or very tiny patterned prints are slenderizing and will make you appear taller.

Milady Takes Men's Shirts For Her Own This Spring

By IRENE VAIL

New York—New York has paid ample homage to Van Gogh. Shop windows show charming costumes against backgrounds on which his landscapes impressed women tremendously, particularly with the artistic value of green and yellow—although Van Gogh's pictures are by no means limited to these tones.

It's a great year for yellow and green appear. In fact, it's a great year for color with just a sufficient touch of black to be dramatic. Black often turns up as the accessory color rather than the costume tone.

The shops feature brilliant colored purses. These either match the hat or the gloves and very chic they are too. London tan is a smart shade and there are many leathery and coppery tones very tricky with the tailored suit.

Shirtmakers are busily engaged making shirts for women and shirtwaist dresses too. Since fashion countenances that mannish detail, women slender enough to get away with it are buying their shirts of haberdashers, not caring that they button the wrong way.

Among the thousand and one varieties of shirts now in the shops are some highly acceptable ones fastened, not by the usual method but, with studs, another bow to the gentlemen of course. These studs have a real stud-like aspect and are sometimes set with colored stones.

Rhinestones on black are a favorite, particularly when the black is a chiffon shirtwaist dress, which by the way is chic with a scarlet handkerchief stuck in the breast or skirt pocket or with one of the new watch fobs swinging from the lapel.

What a rad such watches have become, whether set in wood, leather, metal or what have you. Just like fashion to laugh at a thing one year and take it seriously the next. What could be more old-fashioned than an antique gold locket suspended from a velvet ribbon worn choker length around the throat? It is a cameo worn the same way.

Such things are being worn again.

QUESTION: "On which shoulder is it proper for a lady to wear a corsage at a formal dance, and why?—M. B. and V. N. S."

ANSWER: Usually the corsage should be worn on the right shoulder. And for the very obvious reason that when one's partner's right arm is put around one's waist in dancing any flowers on the left shoulder would be more likely to become crushed.

QUESTION: "How should baked potatoes be served? If they are served at the table with the jackets on, how does one go about removing them?—B. B."

ANSWER: Usually baked potatoes are broken in the kitchen and a lump of butter inserted on top. If they should be served whole, however, break into the top skin. Cleanse and fork the fork for the potato while the skin is steady the cutting. Add butter to the potato with the fork. The skin of baked potato is not removed before eating. Rather one eats from the skin. Some persons even eat the baked skin in the end, using a knife and fork.

Festive Meals Possible On Small Budget

By JUDITH WILSON

EVEN the best regulated budgets look a little sick at times, but that is no excuse for your menus to be down-at-the-heel. Not when there are so many good recipes for low cost dishes for your family. The following are even festive enough for festive occasions.

Lamb Patties with Peas
Get 1½ pounds shoulder of lamb freed from the bone. Remove the excess fat and put through a food chopper. Season well with salt and pepper, mold into patties and wrap each with a strip of bacon fastened with toothpick. Place on a boiler rack with halves of canned peas that have been filled with mayonnaise and sprinkled with cracker crumbs. Place the broiler rack about 4 inches from the heat and broil 8 minutes. Remove the peas to a hot platter, turn the lamb patties and complete the broiling. Serve with the peas and a garnish of toast points and fresh mint or mint jelly.

Princess Pudding
This is nothing more than a glorified bread pudding. Cut soft bread into slices, then break into crumbs. There should be 2 cups. Pour over them 2 cups scalded milk, and 1 tablespoon butter and let stand 5 minutes. Beat the yolks of 2 eggs, add 3 tablespoons sugar, ½ teaspoon vanilla and a few grains salt. Combine with the bread mixture and turn into a baking dish. Set in a pan of hot water and bake in a slow oven for 45 minutes or until the custard is firm. Cool, spread with a layer of currant jelly and cover with a meringue made from the whites of the eggs beaten until stiff with 2 tablespoons sugar. Brown in a slow oven. Serve hot or cold.

Lima Casserole
Dice 4 strips bacon and saute with 1 finely chopped onion until lightly browned. Drain off the excess fat and add 2 cups cooked lima beans, 2 cups cooked spaghetti and 1 can of tomato soup. Simmer for 5 minutes then add 1 teaspoon salt, a dash of cayenne and 4 cups mayonnaise. When thoroughly mixed place in a greased casserole and cover thickly with grated American cheese and bread crumbs.

Deep Dish Apple Pie
Peel, core and slice enough apples to make 5 cups. Mix with 2 3 cup white sugar, 1/3 cup brown sugar, ¼ teaspoon cinnamon, ¼ cup water. Grease a shallow casserole and fill the dish with the mixture. Add a little more water if the apples are very dry. Cover the dish with a rich pie pastry. Roll about ¼ inch thick. Press the edges down firmly and cut slits in the center so the steam can escape. Bake about 45 minutes or until the apples are tender. Serve warm with whipped cream or hard sauce.

MODERN WOMEN

Husband With Spendthrift Wife Should Pull Her Up Short

By MARIAN MAYS MARTIN

WIVES have no respect for husbands they can wind around their finger. Nobody loves a sap. The husband who submits to being dragged around half the night by his wife and who goes into debt in order to pay the check at her favorite night clubs isn't going to get any sympathy because he doesn't deserve any.

It's definitely up to such a husband to tell his spendthrift spouse just where she gets off—and why. Especially why. His discourse should be illustrated with the aid of pencil and paper and a few minus and plus signs, mostly minus ones.

Dear Mrs. Martin: My wife is rapidly bringing about a crisis in our family life. I am a successful developer of taste for night clubs and a constant round of pleasure. She thinks it is all right to spend $20 or $25 in a cafe, at night, but when I need a suit of clothes or she requires a new dress we can never get the money together to keep up appearances.

I have tried to point out time and again that we spend money enough in one night to buy a new outfit for one of us at least. Her only reply is that I should make more money.

"In other words, I should be able to pay for luxuries as well as necessities. This I might do if the stepping-out could be limited to once or twice a month, but we go out to dine and dance at least once a week. I often wish people who have a great deal more money than we possess or I can earn."

Waving the Red Flag

"All I have to do to make my wife mad is to say something about keeping up with the Joneses." Waving a red flag in front of a bull could get no surer reaction. I think she is sensitive because she knows she is wrong. I argue that there is nothing constructive or even productive of lasting pleasure in this social routine. I am informed that a woman has to have some pleasure. I might say the same thing myself, but inasmuch as I work hard every day—harder than most women—it seems to me that if I am willing to forego expensive pastimes that my wife should co-operate.

"If she doesn't I am going to take drastic measures. I refuse to be runned for the sake of jazz and gin. You may know of some way to induce reform, but I'm sure I have no influence at home. And I'm getting pretty desperate."

"Forty a Week."

It is not influence you lack, but character. No one can help you out of any such absurd position but yourself. Refuse point-blank to escort your wife to these high spots to provide the money for her to go unescorted or with anyone else.

There is no use keeping up a running battle about this sort of thing. Put your foot down. Do your wife the honor of telling her why, proving your point with very simple arithmetic. She cannot be an utter fool. My guess is that she is pleasure-loving and careless about money matters. She probably thinks you either make more money than you do, and that you are inclined to grouse about spending it, or else she is too vain and silly to merit such consideration.

Talk the situation over with her when you are not angry. Don't wait until you get into a lather before attempting to make her listen to you. Figures do not lie. Any near-wit could understand that on any such salary as you indicate you could not possibly afford to go on as you are.

You ought not to have much difficulty proving this to her.

Take Her In Hand

It's up to you to take your wife in hand. Tell her that you will not fall into her plan if she accepts invitations which call for spending any such sum of money. Do not let her bully you into giving in when or if she does accept any such invitation.

I admit that you are letting yourself in for some unpleasantness, but that cannot be helped. It is better than the trouble that lies ahead unless you alter your course.

It's no man's duty to allow his wife to run him in debt or impose such social obligations on him.

Mrs. Martin will be glad to answer in this column questions of general interest. Mrs. Martin cannot reply individually to every correspondent. Names will not be published. Address her care of this paper.

Better Packages

In the last 12 months, Mrs. John Public received her biggest year's dividend of extra value through better package design. According to figures by Modern Packaging magazine, who sponsor the event, Metal bags for potato chips, a non-slip furniture polish bottle, a package that pumps a non-strip medicine bottle, a cleaning fluid in a glass tube that squeezes, a resistor with a place for everything and everything in its place, and of course beer in cans, were just a few of the features.

NEW DIRECTOR

"Richmond merchants are in line with the idea of improved transportation to San Francisco," said Newson. "They realize that whatever they lose in patronage because it is easy for people to cross the bay will be more than offset by what they will gain because more people will live here and buy goods in Richmond if transportation links are improved. This whole matter assumes an increasing importance as we continue to study it. I assure you the transportation committee will devote itself to this task of giving Richmond an even break with other East Bay cities in this matter of transportation."

U. S., Britain Sign Naval Agreement

piration of the Washington and London treaties on January 1, 1937. It bans an Anglo-American naval building race.

The exchange of letters was construed as a gesture of Anglo-American cooperation in the face of Japan's "long wolf policy" since she halted the naval conference and refused to join in a new limitation treaty except on terms of Japanese equality, which the other delegations rejected.

ACCORD IS SIGNED

LONDON, March 25. — U. S., France, Great Britain and her dominions and the United States signed a naval limitations treaty today in historic Queen Anne's room at St. James Palace.

Two outstanding events marked the final plenary session of the naval conference delegates:

1.—The United States and Great Britain sealed negotiation of a naval building truce and exchanged letters agreeing to maintain naval parity.

ITALY DENOUNCES PACT

2.—Dr. Dino Grandi, Italian ambassador to Great Britain, unexpectantly and vehemently denounced League of Nations sanctions against his country.

Italy did not sign the naval treaty because of Premier Benito Mussolini's refusal to conclude pacts with sanctionist powers, nor did Japan sign. Her representatives sat at the mammoth horseshoe table in the red, gold and ivory room but they were present simply as observers. They withdrew from negotiations months ago when Japan's claims for naval parity were rejected.

Squeaks, Rattles Are Eliminated In New Model

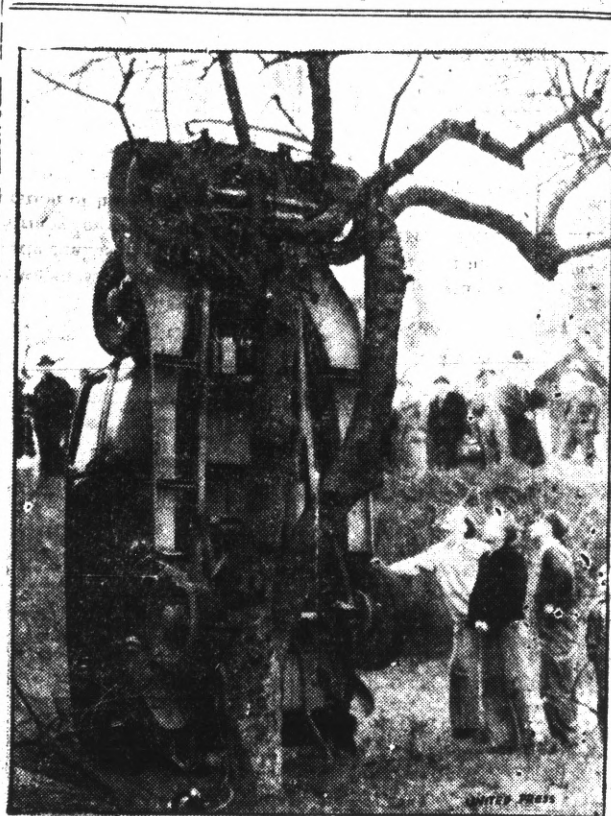

Now that summer is just a couple of calendar pages away, motorists are becoming actively interested in the new Chrysler convertible coupes and sedans, recently added to the 1936 line, according to the Chrysler Auto Sales Company, Chrysler-Plymouth dealer here.

It appears that Walter P. Chrysler, who has pioneered such a host of advances in automobile engineering and construction, has made important improvements in these new convertible models. Carry outlined the construction advancements as follows:

"Frequently, the ordinary convertible sedan and coupe type of body is subject to squeaks, rattles, weaving and other objectionable faults because of the difficulty in properly bracing this type of body. However, Chrysler engineers have permanently overcome these annoying conditions in the 1936 Chrysler convertible sedans and coupes by the use of an independent X-type body frame.

"We have heard that before they were selected for the jury certain jurors were heard to express the hope they would be selected so they could 'give Lamson the rope,' Friendman explained.

rate of nine miles an hour when the crash came. Officers said the rear lights on the truck were burning.

Seifert's machine struck the rear end of the truck squarely. The hood and front wheels of his sedan, a Chevrolet, was jammed under the body of the truck and his windshield was against the truck's tail-gate.

POLICE MYSTIFIED

Officers were unable to understand how the accident happened as the truck was on a clear stretch of highway, slowly climbing the grade to the crest of the hill.

A Wilson and Kratzer ambulance was sent to the scene but it was apparent that Seifert was beyond medical aid. His body was still at the wheel of his machine.

INVESTIGATION MADE

Deputy Coroner W. P. Drumney, State Traffic Officers M. L. Darbee and Clarence Miller and Deputy Sheriff George Burton investigated the accident. The body was brought to the Wilson and Kratzer chapel here. Dr. L. A. Hedges examined the corpse.

According to cards carried in his pocket, Seifert was employed at the engineering department of the Shell Oil company. He carried a card as a special deputy sheriff No. 447, signed by Sheriff John A. Miller.

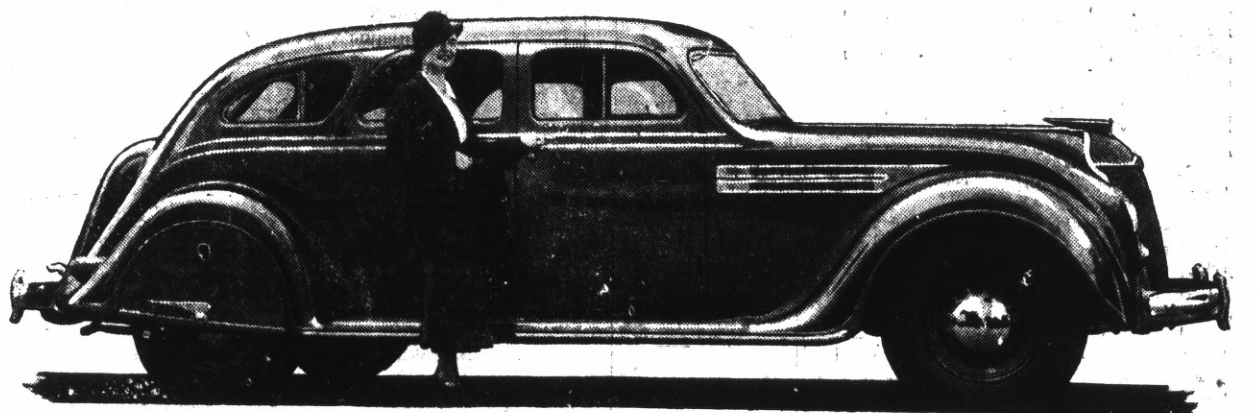

In his county jail cell, Lamson calmly returned to prison routine today, philosophically accepting the jury dismissal and thrusting aside the dejection he manifested yesterday.
